Includes some enhancements such as image uploading, url shorting, cool visual effects. The client easily integrates into any Flash application with various skins to suite your taste. A twitter client that takes you to all your twitter profiles This client is much easier than the first one I made, since it's more user friendly and gives much more details. The way it works is like this: There is a customizable window where you input your first and last name, a profile picture you want to use, and a name you want to give your client. Then just save it and you're done. The file with the name.tt is saved under your default directory(Your desktop, or the desktop of the program that made the program that is used to open this client) You then just open that file and press enter, the client will open. The first thing you see is how many members you have in twitter Under the 'twitter homes' tab you can view all the information about your followers, and even click the 'follow' button to follow them. And just under the 'activity' tab you can view all the messages that where sent/received by you. The 'home' tab is kind of like a daily snapshot of your account, while the 'activity' tab gives a complete overview of everything that has been done or is going to be done. The easiness of the client can be disabled at the bottom of the program. I'm currently working on the good old version 2, which will be released when it's done, so that you can simply press the 'update' button on the bottom right corner of the client(which will make the client point to the most recent version) I hope you can download it and enjoy it. Thanks. Twitter Overview (Leaderboard) [Flex/Flash/ActionScript 3.0] Twitter Overview (Leaderboard) [Flex/Flash/
