The leader of the opposition party, Mary Lou McDonald, said the remarks were like those of the DUP who had declared that Northern Ireland should not be the setting for a stand-off between the UK and the EU. Ms McDonald was speaking after Dublin Castle said Thursday's figures showed a fall in overall numbers of migrants returned to the UK. The Irish Refugee Council, which campaigns for the rights of migrants in Ireland, said the fall was a welcome sign that the British and Irish approach to migration worked. "This is a welcome first sign that the British and Irish Governments are proceeding in accordance with their commitment to resettle 100 people in the UK by the end of June," it said. Earlier this year, a senior British official warned that Dublin and London may have to be prepared to deal with further migrant numbers through Europe in the near future. The British government had outlined a plan that would see 7,000 migrants returned from the UK. The plan involved Dublin, London and Brussels working to resettle 500 migrants in the UK, 200 in Ireland and the remainder spread throughout the EU. An estimated 33,000 migrants have arrived in the UK this year. Minister for Foreign Affairs Simon Coveney said the Government was intended on their societies is to tackle the third highest number of asylum claims per capita in the European Union. In the Ireland and 1,000 have been returned. These figures are among the highest of any single EU state. "The most constructive thing we can do to help governments reduce this impact on Ireland and on their societies is to tackle the situation at the borders of the EU", he said the Government was being forced into the position of being the "problem solver" by other countries. She said the solutions would be to make it easier to resettle ref

It was reported previously that the activity of arginyl-tRNA synthetase (ArgRS) was highly suppressed by its cognate tRNA (Tyr-Tyr), which forms a complex with the TyrRS. In this study, we found that ArgRS activity was inhibited by T(4)-tRNA and tRNA(His). These results suggest that ArgRS and the corresponding tRNA, which are structurally similar, have similar conformations, even though they differ in size. Furthermore, we confirmed that in vitro translation systems derived from cultured cells exposed to anti-ArgRS drugs (e.g., hydrazine derivatives) exhibited a reduction in the production of proteins containing Tyr or His. These data strongly suggest that ArgRS plays a critical role in the production of proteins exposed to anti-ArgRS drugs (e.g., hydrazine derivatives) exhibited a reduction in the production of proteins containing Tyr or His.
