Get the most out of your Photoshop experience by taking a look at these eight Photoshop tips and tricks. 1. Start with a New Project, or Open an Existing Project Photoshop has many bundled templates that save time when starting a new project. The most well known of these are Adobe Stock Template, a collection of many stock images that can be downloaded for free. Simply search the Web for images that you like, right-click, and click "Get the Download Link." Alternatively, you can create a new document in Photoshop and import the image you wish to use into a new layer on the document. It's also worth noting that Photoshop has many templates that mimic the look of commercial, high-end graphics suites such as CorelDRAW and QuarkXPress, which can be downloaded for free. 2. Save the Project Photoshop usually requires a larger file size than other graphics software. So make sure you save the project as you go so you won't have to start over. Once you've created and loaded your project you can use the File menu to save your project. To save the project after making your changes, click on the "File" menu and choose "Save." 3. Cut Out Parts of an Image The first step to using a resource for the Photoshop is to cut out the item, or pieces of the resource you wish to use. To cut out an area of a resource, use the selection tool, select the desired area and drag it to your photo in Photoshop. Once you've selected a piece, click on the "Edit" menu and select "Cut Out." Photoshop will now create a new layer for the cut-out area. You can then delete the cut-out layer, or you can leave it to add to your project. Once you've cut out the desired area you can apply a new layer over the area, and continue to use the area as you work. 4. Change the Size of a Resource If you find an image that you like but wish it were a bit larger or smaller, click on the "Edit" menu and choose "Image Size." The "Image Size" dialog box will open, displaying the difference in the size of the image. You can either enter specific pixel sizes, or hit the button next to the box and use the different sliders to adjust the size. 5. Add

The Pen tool is a very popular tool in Photoshop. It allows you to draw your own shapes. It can be used to draw letters, logos and banners. The Brush tool allows you to easily brush different textures, patterns, and colors onto your artwork. Editing brushes in Photoshop This is the most basic mode of operation for brushes in Photoshop. You use the Brush tool to create a brush. A brush can be any shape – a square, a circle, a line, a square with rounded corners, or just a flat color. Next, you edit it by changing its size, shape, color, and color scheme, to name a few. With brushes, you can create a pattern or gradient that can be applied to an image, creating some of the most stunning visual effects in your artwork. You may create a special brush for an effect that you want to use – for example, a brush that can be used to create an image of a marble wall. If you are creating a realistic-looking brush, Photoshop can also make that brush for you in the Brush Sketch Tool, which can help you get the exact appearance and shape you want. To use the Brush Sketch Tool, make sure you activate the Brush Sketch option on the Blending panel of the Tool Options bar. You can also add patterns or colors to the brush options, to quickly apply the desired effect to your image. The Eraser tool is used to either erase a selected area or restore pixels. This tool allows you to easily delete small patches of pixels from an image. You may also use the Eraser to create new shapes and fix any errors in your artwork. The Dodge and Burn tools allow you to lighten or darken the selected area or area of your image. The Dodge tool brightens or lightens the selected area of the image. The Burn tool darkens or darkens the selected area of the image. If you select the Shadow or Highlight tool, the shadow or highlight areas of the image come to life. You can also paint with the Shadow or Highlight tool to create various effects, such as an old, weathered look, or a neon color. Have you ever wondered how to quickly remove an image layer? If you're using Photoshop CC, there are a number of new options on the Layers panel. You can simply drag the layer to the Trash panel to remove it, or you can use the Eraser tool, or even the Move tool. Click inside the

A night out for the first time in a long time was a big deal for me and even though I was very nervous I had a fabulous time getting ready and going out with my mum. I can't say I was a perfect date even though I was well on time and dressed to impress... but that's just the way I am. I texted my mum as we were leaving and her reaction made me want to celebrate even more, "You're going out with that girl... that you met at the bus stop today? What a coincidence!" I got up on the cab and told my mum all about the night, showing her the two brand new DSLR's I had bought for the evening, "Our first night out and I didn't even want my camera" I laughed, "What do you think mum? Do I look alright?" I was almost bursting with pride. I studied some girl magazines, as I always do, and got to work on my make up. Getting ready is such a great way of ignoring the fact that I'm about to go out on a date. I started with my eyes, on my morning I was given the chance to see my make up artist recreate my look from the night before. With slight modifications like re-applying my top and bottom lashes. I was happy and excited. I had a little brush of my Chanel Rouge Allure Aqua which was so soft and buttery and I felt like I was covered in butter. I used to think I didn't like the on camera look with my naturally bronzed skin but after seeing Chanel's answers to my questions about powder I have a newfound love. As my skin started to feel less oily I was now open to experimenting with just a bit of powder and a light foundation. It was now the time to look in the mirror and see what I was dealing with, I laid out the photos of my mother and I side by side. My Mum and I have always made a great couple, the best at being ourselves and being proud. I could relate and tell her how much I loved us both in the photos. I am proud of my mum, as I don't think I'm a good enough daughter. I need to be the best mum I can be so I need to be there for my mum, as she deserves it. I'm hoping we can be sisters, we might have different fathers, but I think we'd be great friends. Dinner was at a local Indian restaurant and
