I have a variable that is a result of an ajax call and a jquery function that loops through the results. The reason I am doing this like this is because I want to pass the same variable into multiple functions and keep the data in a global location so I can use it later. var result; $.ajax({ type : "GET", url : "return.php", dataType : "json", success : function(response) { result = response; } }); for(var i = 1; i
