I have a list of buttons and for each button I have a white rectangle with some text inside. The problem is that between all buttons there is a white space and I need to fill it with content. The buttons are: - Home button - Flight log button - Flight ticket button - Passport button The space is between the Flight ticket and the passport. Here is a screenshot: A: You have to use wrap_content for height attribute in layout in which you have placed the buttons, instead of layout_height make it wrap_content. Hope this helps. Q: Changing the value of a key in a nested hash I have a hash and I wish to change the value of a key. I've seen that it's possible with an array, but I have a nested hash, which makes things more complicated. Suppose my hash is this: my_hash = {
