Project CARS - Pagani Edition Features Key:

Java Engine(DLL): The title uses a built-in Java Virtual Machine to run on your computer; and there are also some game configuration settings which could be changed in the title's playback window.

Multi-GPU Support: Download the user's GPU multi-GPU, it can increase the performance efficiency with multi-GPU set up and on Windows operating system with the latest DirectX.

Upgrade to a new graphics card: Despite design, upgrading to a new graphics card is not as easy as it might seem at first sight. However we'll provide you with troubleshooting or problem-solving tips to make it easier to do.

Auto-loading chipset: Auto-loading chipset means that once the title is installed, the chipset will be installed automatically at the specified place, and the settings will be saved on the DVD.

Anti-Tampering: The title has a built-in software protection designed to prevent illegal distributing, furthermore, it is tamper-evident, there are several files on the DVD-ROM medium which are different from the files on the official Digital River media when you chose to purchase the title online, this is a way that can verify if the game is illegal downloaded or not. Further, it has a software protection module.

What's new:

By Alexander Badenh Editor Welcome to the 2015 edition of the Road & Track CARS series. My colleagues on the RVT crew will give you a bird's eye view of the most important events in the world of automotive racing over the past month, and I'm the one to tell you about it. For the twelve-thousandth time since I started writing this column, I am truly honored to be making this salute to your favorite form of motorsport available to you on Road & Track! We hope you enjoy it! We kick off this edition's Article of the Week this month with the five-hour race at the famous Nurburgring Nordschleife. After that, we've got three standalone car featurettes, and a profile on two man (and man-machine) team Speedhunter. My next free-for-all shows what we like to call our "distinction series" of articles. They include an in-depth look at the Frozen Grand Prix, a supplement on the Porsche 997 GT3 R we recently tested, and a giant feature on the Audi R8 V10 plus. Then I'm tailing off next month with a two-part series on the 2015 British GT championship. Stay tuned next time, we're planning big things. Pagani Edition Today, I'll open it up to the Pagani team in their own words for an exclusive look at their newly unveiled Zonda R, #15 car. My thanks to Pagani's Stuart McNally, their media liaison person, for having me meet the team and deliver this interview. Why are you using 60-percent carbon fiber? Well, a lot of people ask us this question. I guess it's because you have to do that when you want to do a carbon fiber drivetrain. So that was always a yes. Although going into it we had no plans to do only carbon fiber. We always wanted to do our own unique engine, so that was always part of the first week of the project. So we always wanted that. We looked at a lot of ways to do that. And to save on weight is like your stock car in Formula One. That's what Formula One is all about. So we looked at a lot of ways to do that. First, we picked a race motor.
