We review the district court's probable cause determination for an abuse of discretion. State v. Schmitz, 671 N.W.2d 766, 772 (Iowa 2003). As provided by section 664.7, "If the court finds probable cause has not been shown and the offense charged has been committed, the magistrate shall immediately order the charge dismissed and discharge the defendant." Thus, an order issued upon a finding of probable cause is not the final step in the criminal process. State v. Kjolrie, 541 N.W.2d 120, 123 (Iowa 1995) (finding an analogous situation). Our review of the record reflects the magistrate found probable cause to issue the order. The State presented evidence regarding the harassing communications and Namjou's admission to sending the communications. Moreover, Schoeffner's admission to knowing of and participating in the harassment, as well as the evidence of his violation of the condition of his probation, provided a reasonable basis for the finding of probable cause. Given the finding of probable cause, the district court erred when it failed to dismiss the order. Accordingly, we vacate the decision of the district court and remand with directions for the district court to order the order dismissed and discharge Namjou. VACATED AND REM

$ftp_conn = ftp_connect('ftp.domain.com') or die('Could not connect to '.$ftp_conn); $ftp_login = ftp_login('username','password'); $ftp_raw = ftp_raw($ftp_conn, "cd {$path}"); $ftp_cmd = ftp_fput($ftp_raw,$file,'truncate=.005,full-path='.$file); $ftp_cmd = ftp_fget($ftp_raw,$file,'test'); This is working well. My question is do I need to have credentials supplied for username and password like : $ftp_cmd = ftp_fput($ftp_raw,$file,'truncate=.005,full-path='.$file,array('user'=>'username','password'=>'password')); Also, does the FTP_DIR directive in php.ini affect whether the credentials have to be provided or not? A: No, you don't need to use authentication. But you can if you want, just don't use the username and password from $_POST or $_GET variables. There is a small note in the manual on this topic: It is recommended that you only use these functions if ftp_login() has failed, or you have "anonymous" access to an FTP server. Anonymous access does not require user or password information (except to protect the user name and password from being disclosed). If you try to upload a file to an anonymous server using the $_GET superglobal (see Section 4.2.4), PHP will send the user's name and password to the FTP server unencrypted. PHP will not recognize that these are being sent in clear text and you will experience problems if the FTP server is configured to require a valid

The easiest way to understand this is making a few rectangles and placing them around the room. I've placed the walls with the "join" options but it doesn't seem to be working at all. A: Press Ctrl+L to select all, then start placing edges along the edges of the walls Common Mistakes in App Development: Understanding and Avoiding the Many Flaws Every project has its own set of challenges, whether it's deployment or customer interaction. When it comes to smart apps that live in the cloud, these challenges can be daunting. There are many pitfalls that app developers should avoid if they want a successful mobile application. Here's a list of the common mistakes that should be avoided during the app development process. 1. Failing to consider the target audience While many apps are created to serve a specific purpose, mobile apps must also be made in a way to attract users. When you have created an app that is intended for a certain set of users, the design of the app is important. It should be well-designed to ensure that users understand how to use the app. Your design must be effective. It must be such that the interface will easily let users complete their tasks. For example, there should be a clear button that will allow users to access their email. This is important as it is usually the most relevant function that users want to complete. There must be no confusion within the interface. This is true not just for mobile apps, but for most web sites. If a user has to guess where to click or what to do, it can mean failure for the company. 2. Not considering the app user experience Users should be able to use the app without being frustrated. If a mobile user has to
