The tool is the fastest way to type lengthy English words, like names, addresses, emails, or numbers. It's especially efficient when you need to type long tedious English words in word processor documents like those from MS Word, from MS Outlook, or from any other application that supports a window text editor. TextComplete adds 50 words at a time, which is an efficient number. However, it may not be the number of words you type everyday, and that's no problem, because you can specify the number of words to add. This is especially useful if you type longer words that have already been indexed or if the tool is not running. Each time you add words to the index, TextComplete updates the index. Note: TextComplete searches english characters. It does not support special characters such as Arabic, Korean, Japanese, Chinese (Simplified or Traditional).
