Dark Space is an infinite space exploration game. You get to choose your character class and must decide what type of ship to fly and what type of weapons to equip.

You can play solo mode or multiplayer mode. Be careful though, the game is a little aggressive about demanding users buy steam keys, so you may have to be very patient, and a little tightfisted, but overall it's quite worth it if you are a big fan of The King of Fighters series or Final Fantasy. Thanks to the makers of Steel Storm for their technical support, great game design, and community spirit.

Thanks also to all you fans who have taken the time to feedback. If you like the game and support it, please buy the Steam key or Game of the Year edition from Tons of new features! Finished all the game modes, now it's time to add tons of new features! First of all, dark space is now fully 3D and no longer requires the 2D graphics.

On top of that you can now customize your ship, as well as its weapons, armor and modules. Also control your ship directly by using the keyboard and mouse. You can now select a second ship to start a multiplayer game with! In multiplayer, each player controls his own ship, and will have a different second ship that you can control. The second ship does not have to be the same as the first. You can also play retro mode, in which you must do the same exact objectives as in the original Dark Space. The only exception is that you play in an endless gameplay loop, which means once you complete a level it will never end and the next time you load the game, you must start from the beginning. You must also play the game in 'retro' mode to make it more challenge than the original. And last but not least, you can now ship upgrade in the Starport Shop. Upgrades are used to repair your ship after being damaged, and can only be purchased in the Starport Shop. The Starport Shop also now offers other items such as wallpaper, sounds, and specialized in-game UI such as a space map. First Thing's First You will need to pay for any additional in game purchases such as textures, sounds,

We are a group of gamers who have come together to get these videos out to our fans. We do not get paid for talking about Tiger Ziwang or un-announced games. We do this out of our own free will and we'll always take that route. The majority of what we do in this channel is take video game news coming straight from the Korean gaming websites and place it into appropriate videos. We do that so that you guys can get news from the countries of South Korea, Japan, and China (the origin of the games) and get it out to you in one easy spot. As for the video that we are currently on, I'll give you a few hints to its topic. The first part of the title is the Japanese for "dominoes" and is a reference to the series of games that I am trying to explain right now. The second part is a reference to the famous Korean phrase of "playing with fire" and "not playing with fire".
